

You don't need an antenna like this to get into Amateur (Ham) Radio.

You can even get started with a license, PC and the internet!!!

The Scout Radio and Electronics Service Unit are conducting an Amateur (Ham) Radio Training Course and Assessment in November at Wattle Glen.

For anyone interested in dipping his or her toe in the wonderful hobby of Amateur Radio, the Foundation License is the ideal place to start.

The Foundation Course run by the SRESU is conducted by Scouting people primarily for Scouts, Venturers, Rovers and Leaders. Scouting Parents and Friends are welcomed to apply; acceptance of applications is subject to course number limitations.

The Training and Assessment leads to the Amateur Operators Certificate of Proficiency (Foundation).

When: November 21st & 22nd – Foundation Course to be conducted at the Wattle Glen Scout Hall. The two day training course including Saturday & Sunday light lunch, full colour training manual, WIA assessments, your selection of available call-sign and first year Amateur Radio License¹. Applications Close 9th November 2009. Last posting of Training books will be that same week to enable full week to study of the training material prior to the commencement of the course, (this is essential).

Scouts, Venturers, Rovers and Leaders will be entitled to wear the Amateur Radio Badge and awarded other badges on successful completion course.

What are the costs? – Under 18 Y.O. - $175 (over 18 - $210)

More information call Philip – 03 94383013 or see www.sresu.asn.au/?p=training-foundation

¹ Subject to successful competency based assessment.